I am writing to appeal to you to allow cell phone customers to keep their mobile numbers when we switch plans. If it is important to us to keep a phone number for business reasons or other personal reasons. Yet the service provider provides unsatisfactory service or fails to keep up with technological advances, our only option at this time is to trade in our phone numbers. I urge the FCC to not allow this kind of action from the providers to continue.

Sincerely,
Kristin Allen

To whom it may concern;
I strongly support whatever it takes to allow consumers to "own" their mobile cell phone number to allow them to switch carriers in order to take advantage of price plans or offered equipment.

Please keep me informed of the progress for this regulation change
